The campaign of the French Riviera, with its array of colors and odors characteristic of lavender, and the beautiful landscape, together with the beauty of an enormous park, suggested a tale of light characterized by different lighting scenes linked by a single thread, the thrill of discovery. Light serves as a liaison between the different places, that intended for olive trees, with its centuries-old presences of sculptural form, or the pool area that at night turns into a mirror which is able to reflect the magic of the moon and the stars. Artificial light interacts with the light of the moon giving the park a new and more expressive configuration.
